A picturesque and affluent suburb nestled between Denton and Tarrant counties in the Dallas-Fort Worth metroplex. A premier planned community, it was built around a golf course designed by the legendary Ben Hogan, which is the centerpiece of the town's identity. With over 1,000 acres of parks, including the popular Trophy Club Park offering hiking, kayaking, disc golf, and scenic picnic spots, the town is a haven for outdoor enthusiasts. Trophy Club blends small-town charm with modern amenities, featuring vibrant dining spots, family-friendly neighborhoods, and easy access to urban attractions.
