

A photograph of the interior of the Houston Museum of Natural History. In the center, a large, ornate globe sits on a dark wooden stand with four legs. The globe shows the Americas. The ceiling is covered with numerous taxidermy specimens, including birds, insects, and a large zebra skin. The walls are lined with wooden display cases and more taxidermy, including a large antelope head on the left and a mounted zebra head on the right. The floor is covered with a large, patterned rug. In the background, people are visible looking at exhibits.
