INDEPENDENCE DAY EVENTS

250 years ago

in a boarding house in Philadelphia, a group of remarkable people came together around the idea that something new was possible – that the old order didn't have to be permanent. Thomas Jefferson put the words on paper, but the document that emerged belonged to a whole chorus of voices, people who had been arguing and dreaming and corresponding with each other for years. They pulled from philosophers they loved, but mostly they wrote from the marrow of a particular moment in time, when a community of dreamers decided to bet everything on an idea.
